THE CONFERENCE HAS A BUSY DAY

Methodists Dispose of Much Business.

Several Matters Attended To Yesterday Morning—In the Afternoon Special Train Carried the Ministers and Delegates to the Children's Home—Consolidation of Church Publications In State Proposed.

Winston, Nov. 17.—There were many more delegates here this morning to attend the sessions of the Methodist conference than were present yesterday, the roll call showing that a large number had arrived in the city last night. The devotional services this morning were conducted by Bishop Hendrix, following which the secretary read the roll.

Bishop Edward Rondthaler was presented to the conference and he spoke words of welcome, dwelling upon the mission of the church universal. Bishop Hendrix responded in words of cordial fellowship. Several other visitors were introduced.

D. B. Coletrane presented the report of the Board of Publication of the North Carolina Christian Advocate, one feature of the report of interest to Methodists generally being the recommendation for the appointment of a commission from this conference which shall confer with a similar commission to be appointed from the North Carolina Conference with reference to the consolidation of the North Carolina Christian Advocate and the Raleigh Christian Advocate as the organ of the two conferences in North Carolina. The conditions of consolidation named in the report were that the North Carolina Conference assume one-half of the indebtedness on the Christian Advocate building in Greensboro, and that the organ of the conferences be published in Greensboro.

Bishop Hendrix announced the reception into this conference by transfer from other conferences the names of C. L. McCain, from the South Carolina Conference, and H. G. Stamey, from the North Carolina Conference.

Bishop Hendrix spoke to the conference in the interest of the representative church in the national capital which it is proposed that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, erect at an early date. He called attention to the fact that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is the third largest Protestant denomination in the country, and is the only one of the large denominations that is not represented by such a church in Washington. He urged the importance of prompt action on the part of the church in erecting a church building in the capital that will be creditable to the denomination.

Question 1, "Who are admitted on trial?" was called and twelve applicants were received on trial: L. H. Griffith, C. A. Allison, C. W. Watson, Elmer Simpson, J. F. Folger, J. A. Snow, D. A. Binkley, G. A. Holdery, J. F. Huneycutt, T. A. Groves, F. W. Dibble, P. L. Shore.

Answering Question 10, "What local preachers are elected deacon?" O. E. Cunningham was recommended.

The next question called was Question 8, "What traveling preachers are elected deacon?" G. C. Brinkmann, P. Brittain, J. O. Ervin, T. J. Houck, J. F. Mosier, E. E. Yates, J. A. Fry, T. S. Coble and J. H. Robertson were elected deacons. This class will be received into full connection tomorrow morning, and they will be ordained deacons on Sunday evening.

The class in the third year, numbering 26, was advanced to the class of the fourth year, with the exception of eight members. D. C. Norman, a local preacher, and A. J. Lathan and R. M. Jackson, traveling preachers in the Methodist Episcopal church, were received in the conference.

Question 10 was called, "What traveling preachers are elected elders?" and E. M. Avett, Z. E. Barnhardt, R. L. Fruitt, J. S. Hiat, O. I. Hinson, S. S. Higgins, W. C. Jones, J. A. Sharpe and F. W. Tucker were elected. They will be ordained on Sunday evening.

Answering Question 14, "What local preachers are elected elders?" R. E. L. Plummer was elected.

The conference adjourned at one o'clock, Rev. J. W. Wheeler pronouncing the benediction.

This afternoon the ministers and delegates boarded a special train and were taken to the Children's home. The members of the conference expressed themselves as well pleased with the methods employed in caring for the children. Many were surprised at the completeness of the institution and the facilities for caring for children.

Tonight the anniversary of the Sunday school board was held, a feature of the service being an address by Rev. E. B. Chappell, of Nashville, Tenn. A large congregation was present to enjoy the address.

An item of interest is the selection of the next place of meeting. It is believed that Hendersonville will be selected, though Statesville is working for it. It is probable that the matter will be threshed out Saturday.

MORAVIAN LOVE FEAST.

Impressive and Interesting Service At Moravian Church Sunday Afternoon.

Bishop Edward Rondthaler, of Salem, will preach the anniversary sermon at the Moravian church next Sunday morning. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to hear the bishop, also to attend the Love Feast service in the afternoon at 3:30. Those who desire to attend the Love Feast are requested to supply themselves with cards of invitation as early previous to the service as possible in order that the necessary accommodations may be made.

The beginning of the Moravian Love Feast dates back to 1727 when certain friends who had been greatly stirred by the communion blessing lingered in conversation and prayer and finally partook together of the evening meal.

So reminded of the Apostolic custom other "love feasts" were held from time to time on occasions of religious or semi-religious nature, until the Love Feast became a well established church service.

On Wednesday evening a Young People's meeting was held in the M. P. church at Kernesville. Rev. A. G. Dixon, president of this department of the work, made a most interesting and helpful talk, showing some of the ways in which Christian Endeavor can and will benefit the church.

Prof. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, president of the State Union of Christian Endeavor, was the next speaker and after giving an outline of the work being done throughout the state and world by Christian Endeavor he pointed out a number of ways in which a society can be made more effective.

Rev. S. W. Taylor spoke on "How can pastors best utilize their young people," taking the place of Dr. C. H. Hubbard, who could not be present. He was followed by Rev. R. M. Andrews, who made a helpful talk.

Today the conference will discuss a number of matters of importance, among them being the "School Question." Saturday will be devoted to discussions on missions. Monday will be devoted to education.

Services Held From Residence of A. L. Bain Yesterday Morning.

The funeral of Mrs. J. C. Bain, whose death occurred Wednesday morning, was held from the residence of her son, Mr. A. L. Bain, 317 North Edgeworth street, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

The services were conducted by Rev. T. J. Ogburn, pastor of Grace M. P. church, of which the deceased was a faithful member.

A large number of friends of the deceased gathered to pay their last tribute of respect and there were a large number of beautiful floral designs.

Following the services the remains were interred in Green Hill cemetery, the following acting as pall-bearers: Messrs. J. M. Baley, J. W. Scott, R. H. Brooks, T. A. Hunter, R. G. Glenn, J. H. Phillips.

SUGGESTS HOUSEWIVES' UNION

Wife of Socialist Congressman Would Join It If Organized.

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Victor L. Berger, wife of the Socialist Congressman-elect from Milwaukee, who is here attending the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, would join a Housewives' Union if such a thing were possible. She declares she is not an organizer and, therefore, does not propose to launch a union of married women whose husbands make the living for the family.

"I have been asked," she said, "why I am not a member of a union and I have replied because my trade is not organized and I cannot join any other union, for my trade is that of a housewife."

M. P. CONFERENCE AT KERNERSVILLE

Annual Session Began Yesterday Morning With Large Attendance of Ministers and Delegates—Sessions Will Continue Through Monday—Young People's Meeting.

The North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant church began its annual session at Kernesville yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. W. E. Swain, of Asheboro, presiding. There are a number of Greensboro members of the denomination attending the sessions of the conference. The conference will close Monday night.

About two hundred ministers and delegates are in attendance and the reports from the several charges will be of an encouraging nature. Grace M. P. church set up a fine report which will show among other things the addition of new Sunday school rooms, now being erected.

On Wednesday evening a Young People's meeting was held in the M. P. church at Kernesville. Rev. A. G. Dixon, president of this department of the work, made a most interesting and helpful talk, showing some of the ways in which Christian Endeavor can and will benefit the church.

SPEAKERSHIP OF THE HOUSE

Four Candidates Are After The Position.

Considerable Interest Being Taken Throughout State—W. C. Dowd, of Charlotte, Believed To Have Better Chances—R. A. Doughton a Strong Candidate—Others Who Want Position Are J. F. Spainhour and Mr. Koonee.

Raleigh, Nov. 17.—The speakership of the House of Representatives of the 1911 General Assembly is coming to be an absorbing topic now with the keenest interest who will be chosen for the speakership, this fact being made clear before the two last legislatures for this high honor, has the chances for success strongly in his favor. His nomination in Mecklenburg some months ago was equivalent to election and his friends insisted upon his candidacy for the speakership, this fact being made clear immediately after the nomination. So that there was valuable time for marshaling his full strength before the announcement of other candidates. Dowd stock for the speakership hereabouts is especially strong.

Hon. R. A. Doughton, who was speaker in 1901 and has presided over the senate as lieutenant governor, is also an avowed candidate for the speakership and is expected to make a strong run. However there are a good many who expect that Mr. Doughton will ultimately retire in favor of Mr. Dowd, this being anticipated in view of the fact that Mr. Doughton was one of the strongest supporters of Mr. Dowd for the speakership two years ago. Everyone recognizes the fact that Mr. Doughton is especially equipped and experienced for the duties of the speakership and declare that no mistake would be made in the selection of either of these men.

Another candidate for the speakership is Hon. J. F. Spainhour, of Morganton, who has just been elected from Burke county, resigning the solicitorship of his district to become legislator. He is marshaling his friends to his support for the speakership with all his energy and will show considerable strength when the contest comes to a show down next January.

Representative Koonee, of Onslow county, is another candidate for the speakership. He has been in the legislature for quite a number of terms and has many friends. He introduced the Texas anti-trust law in the last legislature for enactment as a North Carolina "trust buster" but had it "knifed in committee" and its slaughter completed on the floor. It is said that he is planning to introduce it again this session and has assurances of far stronger support.

A Rough Dog.

For some time boarders at Mrs. Doak's on East Washington street have been missing hats and caps and believed they were the victims of some of the petty thieves that infest the city. Yesterday, however, one of the boarders discovered his hat in the yard of a neighbor's house, being fondled by a huge dog. He recovered his headgear and thinking that the dog might have gotten it resolved to experiment. He shut the hall door and placed his hat high on the rack. Soon the dog came to the door and in some way unfastened it and walked in. He saw the hat high on the rack and seemed greatly pleased to find that he could not reach his plaything. Now the boarders are certain the dog has been taking articles and hereafter no hats will be found on the lower portion of that hall rack.

Municipal Court.

The only case in Municipal court yesterday morning was one against Daisy Weaver and Lillie Watkins. They were charged with larceny, having been arrested on Wednesday afternoon. The case was continued until this morning.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Remains of Dr. T. R. Little Laid To Rest In Green Hill Cemetery.

The funeral of Dr. Thos. R. Little, whose death occurred on Tuesday afternoon, was held from the Church of the Covenant yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. R. Murphy Williams, pastor of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Melton Clark.

A large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to all that remained of a much loved man. Many beautiful floral emblems surrounded the bier and pulpit, tokens of the love of friends. The services were most touching and as the minister recounted the work of the departed member in his church and among his patients there were many wet eyes in the church.

The choir sang those beautiful hymns, "Lead Kindly Light" and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Know." Mrs. W. H. Osborn sang with much feeling "I Know My Heavenly Father Knows." Rev. Melton Clark read a portion of the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians. Rev. R. Murphy Williams gave a short sketch of the life of Dr. Little. He spoke of his devotion to his church work, his devotion to his patients, and his devotion to his family. Rev. Mr. Williams said:

"I wish to say that I have known Dr. Little very intimately for more than four years in his professional life, in his social life, in his home life, and in his church and Christian life.

"In his professional life he was honorable, efficient, tender, and sympathetic. His patients loved him devotedly; for he considered their welfare rather than his own. He ever remembered the statement of his Master—that the poor were ever with us" and no one was more willing than he, to do his duty towards them, regardless of remuneration. I have had him come to me and offer, yea more, to urge that I call on him when I knew of such demand.

"In his social life he was quiet, yet he most thoroughly enjoyed his friends, always speaking of events rather than people when he did not have something good to say of them. Never have I heard him say anything that was in the least derogatory of any one; and never did a word pass his lips in my presence but what could have been said in the presence of a woman. Even the children loved him so much. In all the homes of his patients the children were glad to see him come.

"His home life was a beautiful one. He was an affectionate husband and a devoted and loving father. The letter which he wrote his wife on last Sunday was full of tenderness and love, thanking his brother and sister for their kindness to his own, and the good time they were giving his little ones; of joy he anticipated in being with them at the old homestead on Thanksgiving and taking the children a token of his affection. He told his wife of the flowers in their home and the manner in which he was caring for them in her absence.

"In his Christian life he was consistent. He had faults, and no one realized this more than he did, but he was ever struggling to master them. There is a line which men cannot always see, but which is plain to God's eye. On one side of it are the people who are trying to do better and to do right. Dr. Little was on this side of the line. His conscience was most tender and with Paul he exercised himself to always have a conscience void of offence towards God and towards man. He loved his church and made sacrifices for it, and when he was not at its services it was because he was providentially detained. He not only loved the church but the church loved him, as is evidenced by the fact of his being made one of its ruling elders. So we mourn our loss today, not only as individuals, but as a church.

"Oh, for the touch of a vanished hand, For the sound of a voice that's still."

"We cannot understand this Providence, but we listen to

HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM*It Is An Internal Disease And Requires An Internal Remedy.

The cause of rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood. To cure it we prescribe those acids which are expelled and the system so regulated that no more acid will be formed in excessive quantities. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. RUBBING with Oil and Liniments WILL NOT CURE affords only temporary relief at best, causes you to delay the proper treatment, and allows the malady to get a firmer hold on you. Liniments may ease the pain, but they will no more cure Rheumatism than pain will change the fiber of rotten wood.

Science has at last discovered a perfect and complete cure which is called Rheumacide. In hundreds of cases it has effected the most marvelous cures; we believe it will cure you. Rheumacide gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the liver and kidneys and makes you well all over. Rheumacide strikes the root of the disease and removes its cause. This splendid remedy is sold by druggists and dealers generally at 50c. and $1.00 a package. Write to Bobbitt Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md. Booklet free. Tablets sent on mail.

Farms and Town Lots For Sale.

Pursuant to an award made in the case of J. A. Hardin and his wife, Susan M. Hardin, vs. J. Henry Phipps, the undersigned will, on the 21st day of November, 1910, at 12 o'clock m., sell to the last and highest bidder, by public auction, in front of the County Court House door in Greensboro, North Carolina, the following lands:

(1) An undivided one-half in about three (3) acres of land and a mill thereon, known as the Finley Shaw or S. W. Phipps mill.

(2) The S. W. Phipps home-place (where he died) containing approximately one hundred and ninety (190) acres, adjoining the W. A. Job place on the southwest, the Frank Thom place on the north, and Allen Hardin on the extreme west, and others.

(3) Another place owned by S. W. Phipps at the time of his death, purchased by him from his father, S. W. Phipps, and adjoins the tract above described, and Robt. Starr on the north, Mrs. Jessie Phipps on the east and on the south and west by the lands of the W. H. Phipps heirs, and containing approximately one hundred and sixty (160) acres.

All the above lands lie in Clay Township, Guilford county, and the two tracts last above described are north of and within about one-half mile of the main road leading from Greensboro to Kinston, and about an equal distance from and south of a new road going in a southeasterly direction from Greensboro, passing through the farm of John Jones, Esq., and others.

Tracts Nos. 2 and 3 will be first sold separately; then offered together; with the right in the undersigned to close the sale in the manner that brings the most money.

(4) A lot lying on the east side of Pearson street in the City of Greensboro, bounded by the lands of Mrs. Susan M. Hardin on the south, on the north by the lot of Chas. Wootton, fronting 80 feet on Pearson street, and extending back east 150 feet.

Terms of Sale—One-third cash, one-third in one year and one-third in two years, with interest on deferred payments from date of sale till paid, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually; title retained till all the purchase money is paid, with the right in the purchaser to pay his bid in cash without discount.

This sale is not open to an advanced bid, but is final.

This October 18th, 1910.

CONTROLLING THE CHILDREN

The Mother Must Meet the Rage of the Little One With Quiet Self Possession Unwise to Tell a Child That He Has a Temper.

New York World.

When a child wakes in the morning in a bad humor do not tell him he is in a temper, and do not lose your own temper in trying to correct him.

This is more easily said than done, and a nervous mother often finds herself at these trying times on the very verge of a precipice. If she loses her head and topples over just from sheer exasperation, she simply puts herself on the same plane as the cross child and her power for controlling him goes down one degree or several.

On the other hand, if she meets his bad humors calmly and gently she is very apt to be able to manage him without a scene. A child will nearly always copy his mother's anger and go her one better if he gets a chance. Then, in order to handle the situation, she must go him one better, and the result is a conflict of rages which is exhausting and futile.

On the other hand, if she is capable of meeting his rage with a gentle self-possession, and then endeavors to divert his mind from his imaginary trouble, she is laying the foundation for years of ease and quietude later on. Nothing good ever comes from rage confronting rage, and to manage a little child by such methods is to achieve finally a sort of cat and dog life in the household; or, if the mother's rage is greater than the child's, and he is frightened, it is more than apt to make him secretive, and this quality is the last thing to encourage in children.

It is also unwise to tell a child he has a temper. He will begin to cherish it finally as a valuable possession, and as he grows older he will excuse his shortcomings because of his hereditary gift. "I inherit a temper from my mother," he will say proudly, or, "All the Browns are quick-tempered people, you know."

A little indulged only child, on a visit to her grandmother one day, exclaimed: "Grandma, if you won't give me that candy I shall be in a very bad temper with you."

"Nonsense," answered the old lady, "whoever said you had such a thing as a temper? That is not a pretty thing to have."

"Mamma says I have a bad temper," cried the little girl proudly. "And I have got one, too, so there. And I shall scream if I don't have the candy."

"Does that bring you what you want, my child?" asked the grandmother gently.

The child stopped and thought a moment.

"If I keep it up long enough," she answered.

The grandmother shook her head seriously.

"My little girl," she said, taking the child on her knee, "in this world a temper never brings you anything you want, only ugly red nose and swollen eyes and a yellow face. Try and remember whether you ever really enjoyed eating the candy if your mother finally gave it to you after what you call one of your tempers? It didn't taste like candy at all, because the good fairy has made a law that things won in anger were not real things at all, but only shadows."

The little girl was interested, and she forgot that she had just decided to remove her cherished possession from its hiding place and reveal it to her grandmother.

"So just remember that, my little granddaughter," finished the old lady; "whenever you think you are getting what you want from screaming and crying, it will never, never please you, because it is only a shadow."

The next time the little girl indulged in a fit of rage with her grandmother for a piece of cake, the whimsical old lady smiled at her encouragingly.

"Would you like a piece of shadow cake?" she asked.

"Yes," cried the child furiously.

"Annie, bring me the shadow cake, will you?"

The maid, previously instructed, brought an empty plate, from which grandma cut an imaginary slice of cake and handed it to the little girl.

"Go to your room now," she said sternly, "and eat it alone."

There was a strange look on the child's face as she slowly left the dining-room. By and by she came back in a perfectly good humor and laughing, and from that day to this she has never mentioned her temper again.

But in this little girl there was very good material to work upon, and children are not always so easily cured.

A YOUNG HEROINE

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Jenny," said John Hughes to his daughter, a girl of fourteen, "I must have a doctor. You are the only person to go for him, your mother being half sick herself. It is a wild night, I know, for a little maid to go out and walk two miles to the doctor's; only the fear of my dying and leaving your mother and yourself in our present destitute condition for want of a doctor's skill makes me willing to let you go."

"There is no reason why I shouldn't go," said Jenny, getting down a little ragged coat from a peg.

"Yes, there is," said the father, with the peevishness of a sick man. "You'll have to cross the railroad bridge, and I'm afraid the wind will blow you off. Take the lantern, and be sure to take a box of matches in case you need to relight it. There is no train down for more than an hour, but the up passenger express is due in thirty-five minutes. It will take you five minutes to reach the bridge and five more to cross it. That will give you plenty of time. But don't attempt to cross in case you are delayed."

Jenny lighted the lantern from a wisp of burning paper and, taking a box of matches from a shelf, sailed forth into the darkness. It was but a hundred yards to the track, and she knew every step of the way so well that she could have gone over it without the lantern. Once on the track, it was but a short walk to the bridge. She dreaded to cross it for the cause her father had mentioned—that the howling wind might blow her off and down a hundred feet into the torrent. Besides, she knew what her father had known but had not spoken—that an engine or a train not laid down on the schedule might cross the bridge while she was on it.

But there was no stouter hearted maid in that region than Jenny Hughes, though she had never given evidence of it. She boldly set foot on to the bridge, stepping from tie to tie, never faltering till she reached a point over the torrent. Then, obliged to brace herself against the wind, hearing the roaring waters below, though she could not see them, she faltered. But not for long. The possible loss of her father, whom she dearly loved, gave her courage, and she pushed on.

She had crossed the center of the bridge and was entering upon a part under which was a stone support when she saw that one side of the track was considerably lower than the other. She knew that the abutment was giving way, and any train crossing the bridge would go down to its ruin and the death of those on it. To cross this part, a distance of some fifty feet, was fraught with an additional danger. The sloping of the ties to one side alone would force her to crawl over them, and the bridge might go down at any moment. But she thought with horror of the train of which her father had spoken and the people on it, who would be hurled down into the abyss if she could not warn them, and, forgetting the danger, crawled on to the slanting ties.

She was obliged to go very slowly, but by dint of clutching a rail with one hand while she held the lantern with the other she passed the injured part and in a few minutes more reached the land on the other side of the stream. She knew that she had been at least twice as long as her father had calculated she would be and not more than twenty minutes, probably fifteen, would elapse before the arrival of the up train. The thought of what she must do to warn the engineer made her cautious. Intending to take position as far as possible from the bridge, she hurried on. Suddenly she tumbled into a cattle guard.

She was stunned and, worse than that, the light in her lantern was extinguished. But she pulled herself together, hunted for its two parts that had become separated, till she found them and taking her box of matches from her pocket lit one of them. Though the wind blew it out at once she had time to see that there were not half a dozen matches in the box. She scratched another match and it, too, was extinguished by the wind. Another and another attempt was made till all her matches save one were gone. For a moment she gave way to despair, then concentrated her little brain on the great problem of saving scores of lives. Tearing the skirt of her cotton dress to shreds, she made a miniature tent of her coat, scratched her last match under it, touched the flame to one of the shreds, placed others over it, and in a moment her lantern was relighted.

This done, she crawled out from the cattle guard and ran along the track, but now more cautiously. Within a few minutes she heard the rumbling of the train and began to swing the lantern. The brakes were whistled down and the train came to a stop.

When those on the train went forward and saw the condition of the bridge a chill cold as death ran through them, and when they saw the wee ragged child who had saved them their gratitude knew no bounds.

That ended the poverty of the Hughes family. The passengers who had been saved made up a fine purse for Jenny, and the railroad gave her father, who recovered, employment. Jenny is now the president's stenographer.

Editor T. J. Henderson lays down his pen on Webster's Weekly, of Reidsville. He is a vigorous writer and is doubtless planning to find a larger field for his efforts.

New York City is precisely the place where one would expect such a horror as a "rotten egg industry" to prevail. Large bakeries buy spoiled eggs and use them in baking cakes! Such depravity is almost unthinkable, but there are men who look upon their fellows much as the beast of the jungle looks upon his prey.

Col. Roosevelt says he will carry on the fight for progressive government. Which causes the New York World most sensibly to observe:

As there was fighting for progressive government for many generations before Mr. Roosevelt was born and as it is reasonable to assume that it will continue for a time after he shall have passed away, his remarks on that subject will not excite his somewhat jaded countrymen.

New York, Nov. 16.—In the cold, gray dawn of the early morning this fall—John Gear, who thought that Henry L. Stimson would be elected Governor of New York, took off his clothes put on a bathing suit and jumped into the icy East River today. With a rowboat following close behind he swam across the river to Randall's Island, thereby carrying out the provisions of an election bet. A crowd watched and cheered his plucky performance.

So much for relying on Colonel Roosevelt and his big stick. Another time Mr. Gear will do a little thinking for himself.

A conference of Democratic leaders is being planned for the purpose of agreeing on a party policy and plan of procedure. Such a conference will be attended with its dangers and with its possibilities of accomplishing good for the party. If a premature wrangle over the tariff is caused by it, it would better not have been called. If it can successfully impress the Democrats in Congress with the need for avoiding a long drawn-out contest over the Speakership and with the need for presenting a tariff reform program that will be neither radical nor inadequate, it will serve a useful purpose.

Dr. Parkhurst, the well-known city divine, who is contributing articles daily to one of the metropolitan evening papers on various subjects, takes seriously the newspaper reports that the National Association of Retail Milliners propose to found a college of millinery. If such an association really existed, and if such a college was practical, there would be some excuse for a man of Dr. Parkhurst's attainments taking the matter up as seriously as he does. His criticisms of women in their efforts at self-adornment have about as much weight as those of one of his most unsophisticated readers. The more woman is criticized by man for self-adornment the more apt she is to please herself in that particular. Women as a rule do not dress to please the men, but to excite the admiration, envy, or jealousy of their own sex. It matters not to them whether the wearing of a peach basket beaver toque in August or a maline lace picture hat in midwinter is as barbaric as the "bauble-decked Indian women." If fashion decrees such things women will follow in her wake despite the criticism of pulpit and press. The women of this country are perfectly able to work out their own salvation in this regard.—Millinery Trade Review.

Why do women give so much attention to dress anyway? Do they, as the Millinery Trade Review says, dress to "excite the admiration, envy or jealousy of their own sex"? We would say "yes" if we thought there were more silly women than there are sensible women. But we don't for a minute think that, just as we don't think there are more foolish than sensible men. One of the reasons for woman's adornment of herself is the satisfaction of being well dressed. Good quality and stylishness of dress suggest good taste and the sense of being able to display good taste is naturally something to be sought after. Good quality and style likewise suggest the ability to take pains. Thus the satisfaction of having performed a task with fidelity and thoroughness is another thing in the seeking of which women show a reason for dressing well. Good taste and style in dress also suggest a disposition to make the most of one's physical appearance and of course it is satisfying to a woman to feel that she is using to the best advantage the God-given talent of physical beauty. So far from dressing to excite envy and jealousy, we believe the average well-dressed woman has her natural satisfaction at being well-dressed marred rather than enhanced by the fact that so many of her sisters have not the means to dress as she does.

GIVE US MEN.
Men from every rank,
Fresh and free and frank;
Men of thought and reading,
Men of light and leading,
Men of loyal breeding.
The nation's welfare speeding;
Men of faith and not of faction;
Men of lofty aim and action;
Give us men—I say again,
Give us men!

GIVE US MEN!
Strong and stalwart one;
Men whom higher hope inspires,
Men whom purest honor fires,
Men who trample self beneath them,
Men who make their country wreath them.
As her noble sons,
Worthy of their sires!
Men who never shame their mothers,
Men who never fail their brothers.
True, however false are others.
Give us men!

GIVE US MEN!
Men who, when the tempest gathers,
Grasp the standard of their fathers
In the thickest fight;
Men who strike for home and altar.
Let the coward cringe and falter,
God defend the right!
True as truth, though lorn and lonely,
Tender, as the brave are only;
Men who tread where saints have trod,
Men for Country—Home—and God;
Give us Men! I say, again—again—
Give us men!

—Bishop of Exeter.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.
It was in Italy that a demand for artificial flowers first arose. This was due primarily to a caprice of fashion which demanded that during festivals blossoms in and out of their seasons should be worn and also to the fact that their color and freshness were stable. Later on, in the middle ages, the artificial so far superseded the natural that both men and women decked their heads with imitation flowers of cambric, paper, glass and metal.

SISTER-IN-LAW DEAD.
Dr. J. E. Wyche yesterday received a telegram from his brother, Mr. Benjamin Wyche, of San Antonio, Tex., announcing the death of his wife, which occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Wyche was before her marriage Miss Nola Woodard, of Durham, and the remains will be brought to her old home for interment, which will take place Sunday. Mr. Wyche is a brother of Mrs. E. Poole also.

Mrs. Thompson's Funeral.
The funeral of Mrs. L. F. Thompson, whose death occurred on Wednesday morning at her home on Gregory street, was held from the late residence yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. W. R. Cox in the presence of a large concourse of friends. Following the service the remains were interred in Green Hill cemetery, the grave being covered with flowers.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

NOISE OF THUNDER.

Due to Heating of Gases Along the Line of Electric Discharge.

To Professor Trowbridge we owe an experiment to explain the noise of thunder. It has usually been thought that the noise is caused by the closing up of the vacuum created by the passage of lightning, the air rushing in from all sides with a clap, but the intensity of the noise is rather disproportionate, and it is now supposed that the thunder is due to the intense heating of the gases, especially the gas of water vapor along the line of the electric discharge, and the consequent conversion of suspended moisture into steam at enormous pressure.

In this way the crackle with which a peal of thunder sometimes begins might be regarded as the sound of steam explosions on a small scale, caused by inductive discharges before the main flash. The rumble would be the overlapping steam explosions, and the final clap, which sounds loudest, would be the steam explosion nearest the auditor. In the case of rumbling thunder the lightning is passing from cloud to cloud. When the flash passes from the earth to the clouds the clap is loudest at the beginning.

Professor Trowbridge gave substance to these suppositions by causing electric flashes to pass from point to point through terminals clothed in soaked cotton wool, and he succeeded in magnifying the crack of the electric spark to a terrifying extent.—London Graphic.

THE BIG DIPPER.

It is the Hour Hand of the Woodman's Celestial Clock.

The pole star is really the most important of the stars in our sky. It marks the north at all times. It alone is fixed in the heavens. All the other stars seem to swing around it once in twenty-four hours.

But the pole star of Polaris is not a very bright one, and it would be hard to identify but for the help of the so-called pointers in the "Big Dipper," or "Great Bear." The outer rim of the dipper points nearly to Polaris at a distance equal to three times the space that separates the two stars of the dipper's outer side. Various Indians called the pole star the "Home Star" and the "Star That Never Moves," and the dipper they call the "Broken Back." The "Great Bear" is also to be remembered as the pointers for another reason. It is the hour hand of the woodman's clock. It goes once around the north star in about twenty-four hours, the reverse way of the hands of a watch—that is, it goes the same way as the sun—and for the same reason—that it is the earth that is going and leaving them behind.—Country Life in America.

It will help us to SERVE YOU BETTER and it will help you in securing the best things first, and not only that, but you will be able to enjoy Xmas—be spared the trouble of having a doctor treat you at Xmas time for nervous exhaustion.

It has been a long time since you have seen on display in Greensboro such a classic collection of Suits as came in this store yesterday morning. Broadcloths, Serges and other materials. All the way from $15.00 to $55.00.

Long Fur Coats

Long Coats are the thing and we have them in Caracul and Seal Plush—heavy Diagonals, Scotch Mixtures and Black Broadcloths. If it's a Long Coat you are after drop in and let us show you that we have some splendid values, and the price is reasonable—$12.50 to $35.00.

44-in. Silk Down

This is one of the most desirable materials to be had for the making of beautiful evening costumes. Ladies, please don't fail to ask about this new goods—we are glad to show you.

Children's Coats

Don't forget that we have a large line of Coats for children. The children are needing their Winter Coats. It is cheaper to buy Coats than it is to pay doctor's bills. We are anxious that you should see our line before you buy—$3.50 to $10.00.

Centemeri Gloves

If you are posted on the Glove question, you know when it comes to quality, fit and finish there is not a better Glove being offered to the public today. The name, "Centemeri" stands for the highest standard of quality, workmanship and perfection in fit and finish. Price $1.00, $1.50 and up.

Caracul and Seal Plush

By the Yard, $4.50.

Ellis, Stone &amp; Co.

The Daylight Store

To Lovers of the Beautiful.

You will be interested in our most recent importation of Fine China, direct from Limoges. It is the handsomest line that it has been our pleasure to offer to the discriminating purchasers of Greensboro. Those who have seen it are enthusiastic over its beauty. Very acceptable for Wedding and Holiday Gifts.

You are invited to come and inspect it.

TO FURNISH ROOM AT ORPHANAGE

Greensboro Lodge, No. 80, Knights of Pythias Selects Room At Pythian Orphanage—The Orphanage Building About Completed—Cost About $17,500.

Mr. C. C. McLean, who visited Clayton Wednesday to meet with the trustees of the Knights of Pythias Home for Orphans to select the room which Greensboro Lodge, No. 80, proposes to furnish, reports the buildings completed with the exception of the water and sewer system, which will be completed in about two weeks. The room which he selected will be furnished with the most comfortable beds and other equipment.

The Pythians own one hundred acres of excellent farm lands on which this year was raised a good crop of cotton and corn. The site is a beautiful one. The building just completed is a beautiful brick structure, two stories and basement and cost $17,500. The architecture is so arranged that every room in the building is an outside room, thus giving perfect light and ventilation. The halls are large wide ones. The building will be heated by steam and lighted with electricity. Large wide fire escapes are accessible from the halls and bed rooms. The dining room and kitchen are conveniently arranged and will be equipped in the most modern and labor saving manner. The trustees have authorized the purchase of the furnishings for the institution.

The Pythians and citizens of Clayton worked hard to secure the institution for their city and deserve great credit for the enterprise and liberality they have shown, Clayton having raised $7,500 for the institution.

There are forty-five bed rooms in the present building and the trustees have nearly enough requests from lodges throughout the state asking for the privilege of furnishing a room to thoroughly equip every room.

The Pythians have been setting aside a portion of their funds each year for a good many years looking to the establishing of an orphanage. This institution will be the pride of every Pythian in the state and with such an auspicious beginning, no doubt, will do a great work and be a blessing to humanity. The establishment of this orphanage has long been the fond dream of Dr. P. R. Law who since the beginning of the movement to set aside funds for this purpose has been the guardian and father of the project.

Business activity sometimes consists of dodging creditors.

A man with a future shouldn't marry a woman with a past.

A Blow Arrested.
An organist who on the eve of a festival was taken suddenly ill secured a deputy to take his place. The deputy, on the authority of St. James' Budget, was a gentleman who played a very full organ, playing full chords where his principal played only single notes, and consequently using a much larger quantity of wind.

When about three parts through with the "Alleluiah Chorus" the wind suddenly gave out. Going round to the back of the organ to ascertain the reason, the deputy found the blower in the act of putting on his coat preparing to go home.

"What do you mean by such behavior?" the deputy angrily expostulated. "Look here, sir," the blower returned with warmth, "if you think I don't know 'ow many puffs it takes to blow the 'Alleluiah Chorus' you make a big mistake!"

Helped the Thief.

"A simple, honest Scotch farmer had taken a sack of meal to dispose of in Aberdeen castle market," says Mrs. Mayo in her "Recollections of Fifty Years."

"It was in the days when people were hanged for any petty theft, and an execution was in progress, the culprit being a sheep stealer. The worthy countryman stood aghast when a stranger hustled up with the question:

"What's a-doe?"

"A hanging," said the other, awed, "for stealing a sheep."

"Eh, what won't folks risk for gear!" cried the stranger. "Will ye just give me a hand up with this sack?"

"The farmer promptly complied. It was only afterward that he discovered he had helped a thief to make off with the sack of meal he had brought to sell!"

Force of an Oil Well.

Oil has been ejected from the Bakelite wells with such force and accompanied with so much sand that steel blocks twelve inches thick placed over the mouth of the well to deflect the flow were perforated in a few hours and had to be replaced. The casing with which the wells were lined was often torn to shreds and eventually collapsed, and hundreds of thousands of tons of sand which accumulated in the vicinity necessitated the services of large bodies of workmen.—London Mail.

A Safe Bet.

A man can never guess how big the hats or sleeves or skirts of women will be next season, but he stands ready to bet that no fashion center can make big shoes for women popular.—Atchison Globe.

A Misnomer.

It is becoming daily more dangerous to refer to "the weaker sex" on account of the increasing doubt in the reader's mind which sex is meant.—London Saturday Review.

The man who never profits by his own mistakes can't expect to profit by those of others.

MARSE JIM OSBORNE IS SURE 'NUFF QUALITY'

And He Helps "We Ails" Out When Black Peter Osborne's Son Ed Kills a Man.

New York World.

"Ah speaks my own folks 'll be down yere right quick to help we alls out. Marse Jim Osborne, he's my daddy. O' co'se ah knows sh's a old nigger, eighty-six yeahs old, but ah used to tote young Marse Jim round in my arms. That wa' sdwn by Charlotte, in North Carolina, whera I was slave to old Marse Osborne an' taint like a Osborne to go back one one of dere own; no indeed, taint the way of quality and Marse Osborne is sure 'nuff quality.

"My name's Peter Osborne. Ah gets de Osborne from old Marse and de Peter from a black horse old Marse used to ride. My boy Ed, he's killed a man so ah has to come down here to de Coroner's office to de hearing and jest nat-ally ah sends words to Marse Jim to come and help we all out.

"Ed and me's in business together on Cornelius street. See dis card? That tells it. General contractors for white washing by machine or hand; and listen to me, white man. Ed's a good boy and always was. He's got his hon'able discharge fro' mde Navy.

"Yester day Ed is in Marietta Lane when dere's a ruction rises and after my boy gets a few stabs in de back and his clothes is most cut offen him, cos dere's six or seven of does no 'counts piling onto him all to once, why Ed, he just pulls out his pistol and shoots and dis Louis Spicer man he gets in de way of de bullet and gets killed dead. Can't no one blame Ed for dat can dey? But I wants Marse Jim down here to tell de Co't o' ho'w it was."

And presently James W. Osborne appeared, but it was not "Marse Jim," but a young man, a nephew of the former Assistant District Attorney, who had been sent to the Coroner's office yesterday afternoon by "Marse Jim" because he himself could not get away. "Ed" was held without bail.

Union Services.

Union Thanksgiving services will be conducted by the churches in South Greensboro this year as usual. They will be held at Friends church and the sermon will be preached at 11 a. m. by Rev. D. M. Litaker, of Centenary M. E. church. Those taking part will be Friends, Centenary, Westminster, Asheboro Street Baptist, First Reformed and Moravian.

Mr. J. M. Russell Dead.

Mr. J. M. Russell, of Albemarle, died at St. Leo's Hospital yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The remains were taken to Pool's undertaking parlors and prepared for burial. The remains will be carried to Albemarle this morning, leaving here on train No. 11. Mr. Russell was about 50 years of age and is survived by his wife and several children.

Easy Way to Get A Pair of Shoes

Coble & Mebane agree to give a pair of their shoes free to the man or woman who will write them the best letter of criticism on their very attractive advertisements which are appearing every Friday in this paper. Coble & Mebane are large advertisers, and they really want to get the benefit of your judgement as to what style of advertising is the most effective, and for this reason are offering this pair of shoes as a premium for the best written letter in regard to their advertising campaign.

You are to select one of their advertisements (the one you think is the best) and write a letter stating why you think this particular advertisement is the most effective. All of the letters received will be submitted to a competent committee, who will decide as to which is the best letter, and the name of the winner in this contest will be found in this paper on December 24th, and the shoes will be delivered on Christmas Day. All letters must be addressed to Coble & Mebane and must be mailed on or before the 20th of December.

Look for the large ad. every Friday. This morning it is found on page 7. Cut it out and keep it so that you can compare it with subsequent ads. Fri. tf.

Yours truly,

R. F. RICE.

"He's All Right; He Has Money in the Bank"

How many times has each of us heard this or similar expression! If we go around much we hear it nearly every day. And yet so few of us really take it to heart.

If a young man gets into trouble, a bank account will pull him out. If he gets sick or injured it will pay the doctor's or druggist's bills. If he wants to buy a few shares of stock in the Company for which he works, and thereby strengthen his position, he can do it. All these things, and a hundred more, can be done with a snug bank account—but one must SAVE in order to have that account.

HOME MISSIONS SHOULD BE FIRST

Needs Greater Than in Foreign Fields,
"Sky Pilot" Higgins Says.

Philadelphia Record.
Rev. Francis E. Higgins, known as the "lumberman's sky pilot," made an earnest appeal in behalf of home missions at the weekly meeting of the Presbyterian Ministers, yesterday morning, in the Witherspoon Building. Dr. Higgins has had a long and eventful missionary career in Western lumber camps and has built a number of Gospel tents and temporary churches in small villages of Minnesota. He claims that the great financial aid given to foreign missions would be better spent in this country, where there are vast areas of land and many thousands of people without a single church of God. He thought that the great zeal evinced for the salvation of the heathen should stay right here, for it is not needed more in any other country.

"We are sending millions of American money each year to foreign lands," he said, "and foreign lands are reciprocating by sending us the sum of their population, amounting to a million souls a year. It seems to me that we have a deficit here which our own missionaries find it difficult to overcome."

"In Minnesota until recently the greatest event in the life of a community was the opening of a new saloon or a gambling house. Within 200 miles of Duluth there are 50,000 men engaged in lumbering. The missionaries are doing good work, but their field is too vast and they need more help."

As a proof of their loyalty to the cause, Dr. Higgins said that preachers were considered well-to-do if they received $900 a year, while most of them had to support a family on $600.

The regular scheduled address was delivered by Rev. Dr. Nassau, on "Comparative Religions," and gave a graphic description of the peculiar rites and origins of the natives of South Africa. Six members were appointed to represent the Presbyterians at the meeting of the World's Christian Citizenship convention, which opens today in the Chambers-Wylie Memorial Church and continues until Friday. These members are Revs. Dr. William Hutton, M. J. Hyndman, Dr. George S. Burnfield, Dr. David Tully, Park Hayes Miller and C. A. R. Janvier.

Saved an Iowa Man's Life.
The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Biters. It is positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50 c. at Pariss-Klutz Drug Co.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE

Miss Forbes-Robertson Flays Those Who Oppose it.

Philadelphia Record.
With a lively fusillade of brilliant epigram, stinging witticisms and sweeping statements, Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, the actress-suffragette, attacked the arguments of the anti-suffragists yesterday in an address before a large company at the New Century Club, under the auspices of the Ward Suffrage League of this city. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery, president of the State Suffrage Association.

"The great point," she said, "is what do we want the vote for?" These women in easy circumstances, who have so many privileges they don't need any rights—these anti-suffragists who come from the leisure classes in the Eastern United States, say they already have more than they can do. Well, let them cut bridge, late suppers and the opera box, and they will have more time. We suffragists want the vote and want it tomorrow, to give these women more work and to take the burden to some extent from the shoulders of the 66,000,000 working women in America. We are making all this fuss for what is to us but a symbol of something much greater.

Some of the epigrammatic remarks made by Miss Forbes-Robertson were: "Which really will be the ignorant vote—Upper Fifth avenue, or the factory woman's?"

"I admit all the defects of a democracy, but as yet we have nothing better."

"Politicians are not really naughty men. They are just human beings who will exchange something you want for your vote."

"It is a falacy that men represent women. A married man responsible for 4six women has only one vote, and his bachelor brother has one also."

"Public opinion is great thing, but you need a ballot also."

On the subject of woman's influence the speaker decried in direct methods of securing an object—"the wheeling of men, the most pernicious habit of the sex, the most lowering to the dignity of both men and women. These are the women who wear their most becoming hats and button-hole of the Legislature. These are the women who rifle their husband's pockets. But thank God, even without the vote higher education is changing that in women, and men today don't want clinging vines that stifle the mighty oak, but they want good, open, honest, comradeship in their mates."

REVENUE CUTTERS.

Varied Duties of These Life Savers of the Seas.

No men in the employ of Uncle Sam render more efficient service than do those of the revenue cutter service. The term "revenue," which would indicate that their duties were restricted to those pertaining to the proper enforcement of the revenue laws, can give but a faint notion of the varied duties of this splendid corps of men. As a matter of fact, revenue cutters are the life savers of the seas. They patrol the coasts on regular beats, on the watch for vessels in distress. They must suppress mutinies, prevent smuggling and illicit seal hunting; they must examine ships' papers, enforce quarantine regulations, supply lighthouses and in general do all kinds of police work. Then, too, they have been dubbed "the messenger boys of the seas."

Alexander Hamilton was the father of the revenue cutter service, for it was under his administration of the treasury department that, in 1791, ten cutters were built and put in commission under rules of his own devising. In time of peace the cutters are under the supervision of the treasury department, but in times of war they are transferred to that of the navy department. Since the war of 1812 they have always rendered excellent service in the event of armed hostilities. Every one remembers the remarkable work done by the McCulloch, under Dewey, at the battle of Manila Bay.—New York Press.

Do not accept a substitute but see that you get the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow carton with black letters. Howard Gardner.

One Consolation.
During the time he acted as United States constable in Glasgow Bret Harte occasionally indulged in a day's sport with the gun, and it was during one of his shooting excursions that the humorist met with an accident which might have disfigured him for the remainder of his life, his face being badly cut through the recoil of an overloaded gun. Fortunately the doctor's skill prevented him from being permanently maimed.

Writing about the occurrence to his friend, T. Edgar Pemberton, who quotes the letter in his "Tribute to Bret Harte," the novelist concludes his letter by telling of an amusing effort which was made to console him on account of the accident.

"When the surgeon was stitching me together," he wrote, "the son of the house, a boy of twelve, came timidly to the door of my room."

"Tell Mr. Bret Harte it's all right," he said. "He killed the hare."

Good Results Always Follow.
The use of Foley Kidney Pills. They are upbuilding, strengthening, and soothing. Tonic in action, quick in results. Howard Gardner.

Wigg—"Now that young Sapphedee has come into a fortune I suppose he'll go in for all sorts of extravagances." Wagga—"Yes, he has started already. He was married the other day."

Nell—"Mrs. Talkot is the busiest woman I know." Belle—"Yes, she is too busy to attend to her own business."

A LIVING SNUFFBOX.

Peculiar Role Mme. du Cayla Played For Louis XVIII.

There have been snuffboxes of gold studded with jewels, of delicately carved tortoise shell, filigree silver, porcelain, ivory, mother-of-pearl, humbug horn, wood and tin, but there is only one living snuffbox on record, and that was the particular luxury of Louis XVIII. of France.

"His majesty's snuffbox," as she was known throughout Europe, was Mme. du Cayla, a fascinating favorite at the Bourbon court. Her place at table was always at the monarch's left hand, and when during the course of the meal he signified his desire for a pinch of brown powder to titillate his fat nose she took a diamond crusted box from her pocket, dusted just the right quantity of perfumed snuff on her snowy right shoulder and presented it to the king, who partook of it with profound pleasure.

As Louis was the greatest snuff taker at a court where everybody snuffed constantly, Mme. du Cayla's position was no sinecure, but the human snuffbox was well paid for indulging the king in his little fad. He presented her with a copy of Roymont's Illustrated Bible, and each one of the 150 engravings was covered with a thousand franc note. It was followed with the gift of "Bassnet's Sermons," interleaved with the same valuable paper from cover to cover.—New York Press.

ANTIQUITY OF CHEESE.

Homer and the Book of Job Allude to the Product.

Cheese and curdling of the milk are mentioned in the book of Job. David was sent by his father, Jesse, to carry ten cheeses to the camp and to look how his brother fared. "Cheese of kine" formed part of the supplies of David's army at Mahanaim during the rebellion of Absalom.

Homer says that cheese formed part of the ample stores found by Ulysses in the cave of the Cyclop Polyphemus. Euripides, Theocritus and other early poets mention cheese. Ludolphus says that excellent cheese and butter were made by the ancient Ethiopians, and Strabo states that some of the ancient Britons were so ignorant that, though they had abundance of milk, they did not understand the art of making cheese.

There is no evidence that any of these ancient nations had discovered the use of rennet in making cheese. They appear to have merely allowed the milk to sour and subsequently to have formed the cheese from the caseous part of the milk after expelling the serum or whey.

As David, when too young to carry arms, was able to run to the camp with ten cheeses, ten loaves and an ephah of parched corn, the cheeses must have been very small.

Marvels of the Telephone.

The Electrical Review thus describes the minute electric current required in transmitting speech:

"The peculiar electric telephone current is perhaps the quickest, feeblest and most elusive force in the world. It is so amazing a thing that any description of it seems irrational. It is as gentle as the touch of a baby sunbeam and as swift as the lightning flash. It is so small that the electric current of a single incandescent lamp is greater—500,000,000 times. Cool a spoonful of hot water just one degree and the energy set free by the cooling will operate a telephone for 10,000 years. Catch the falling teardrop of a child and there will be sufficient water power to carry a spoken message from one city to another. Such is the tiny genie of the wire that had to be protected and trained into obedience."

The News by Windmill.

In certain parts of Holland births, marriages and deaths are frequently announced by the windmills instead of in the newspapers. When a miller gets married he stops his mill with the arms of the wheel in an oblique position and with the sails unfurled. His friends and guests often do likewise with their mills in token of the ceremony. To indicate a birth the wheel is stopped with the arms in a slanting position, but at a more acute angle than for a marriage and with the two upper sails unfurled. Should a miller die the sails of his mill are all furled and the wheel is turned round until the arms assume an upright cross, in which position they are left until after the funeral has taken place.—Harper's Weekly.

to ask a friend to do you a favor when it is impossible to secure the favor in any other way. But why ask a friend to go on your bond as surely when the Greensboro Loan & Trust Company can give better security than an individual at no extra cost for its faithful discharge of its duty as a trustee or executor or administrator. Why should you sign a bond by which your "heirs, executors, administrators and assigns are held and firmly bound" to pay for the default of others; perhaps after your death, every dollar of your estate?
